

The Michael E. McGoldrick Student Scholarships

Economics Scholarship | $5,000

- ✔ Essay prompt: Given what you have learned in your high school Economics class, what does the term “economics” mean to you now? In particular, what impact do you see economic concepts or the “economics way of thinking” having on either your current life, or your life in the future?

Personal Finance Scholarship | $5,000

- ✔ Essay prompt: What three financial literacy skills you have learned about in high school do you see yourself using the most when you are age 30? Briefly describe the three skills you selected, and why consistent use of these skills might help you make informed decisions, achieve your goals, and/or navigate economic uncertainties effectively in your future life.

Michael E. McGoldrick was a life-long learner, a curious intellectual, and inspiring teacher with a photographic memory and genius at financial mathematics. He worked as an economist, consultant, development director, teacher, portfolio manager and retired as a successful private investor.

Learn More:

